The Global Mediation and Reconciliation Service (1999-present)

Reconciliation Leaders empower groups to find answers for their challenges in a Peacebuilding Process of Reconciliation by:

- ◆ Eliciting trusting communities to heal the cycle of violence from a larger perspective than injured or injurer.
- ◆ Fostering concrete approaches as Reconciliation Leaders learn personal, interpersonal, systemic and global competencies for peaceful means of settlement, UN Charter, Chapter 33
- ◆ Specializing in transforming resistant systems with the use of bridge people in times of personal and public stress
- ◆ Transforming resistant systems community, national & global institutions.
- ◆ Training reconciliation tools to introduce and sustain change
- ◆ Learning 200-year present (Elise Boulding) “Civilizations perish without creative acts to meet their challenges.” (Arnold Toynbee) Reconciliation in Divided Societies theory (John Paul Lederach)

The Service provides facilitation expertise, tools and techniques for interdependent approaches to complex challenges considering the interconnected issues of the Global Problématique beyond the capacity of sovereign states to solve alone.

Leadership and Development to Restore Faith in Leadership

Reconciliation leaders are seasoned & emerging professionals who build trust by laying a foundation of their client's innate goodness before helping them face limitations. They are trained with an academic and practical curriculum to facilitate a systems, agile approach with a toolbox & techniques to facilitate group decisions—setting aside personal agendas. They practice self-care, are spiritual, altruistic, practical idealists with trauma-informed training to set aside their biases.

- ◆ Inspired by the inside-out leadership of Dag Hammarskjöld: “Peace starts within oneself.”
- ◆ Empowering disenfranchised people and groups with Boulding's Imaging Process where challenges are resolved at a higher level than where they were created
- ◆ Uniting hearts and minds
- ◆ Drawing on experience transforming conflict at its root.
- ◆ Listening to Thomas Berry, Ecotheologian and Cosmologist: The World Needs a Soul.”

— THE INSTITUTE FOR — GLOBAL LEADERSHIP

Has 30 years' experience providing confidential and compassionate guidance, consultation and training in the United Nations community. We help leaders and teams re-frame their values, skills and experience for a COVID19, post 9/11 world. The Institute recognizes all human beings, institutions, nations and multilateral organizations for their uniqueness, need and capacity for transformation.

After completing the Institute's Reconciliation Leadership Certificate Program, emerging and seasoned professionals facilitate teams, national and global entities through the changes, challenges and crises that they are facing. The challenges may be personal, vocational, societal to global.
